SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—John Stuart Webster, mining engineer, after cleaning up a fortune in Death Valley, Calif., boards a train for the East. He befriends a young woman posed by a masher, thoroughly a the "pest."

CHAPTER II.—At Denver Webster receives a letter from Billy Geary, his closest friend. Geary urges him to come to Buenaventura, Central America, to finance and develop a mining claim. He decides to go.

CHAPTER III.—Dolores Ruey, the young woman Webster befriended, and who has made a deep impression on him, he has on her, is also on the way to Buenaventura.

CHAPTER IV.—At Buenaventura, capital of Sobrante, Billy Geary, ill and penniless is living on the charity of "Mother Jenks," keeper of a dramshop. She receives a cablegram from Dolores, telling of her coming.

CHAPTER V.—Dolores' father, Ricardo Ruey, president of Sobrante, had been killed in a revolution led by Barros, the present executive. Dolores, a child of four, was smuggled out of the country by Mother Jenks and supported by her in the United States. The old woman, ashamed of her occupation and habits of life, fears to meet Dolores, and sends Geary to the boat to say she has gone to the United States.

CHAPTER VI.

The ancient bromide to the effect that man proposes but God disposes was never better exemplified than in the case of John Stuart Webster, who, having formulated certain daring plans for the morrow and surrendered himself to grateful slumber in his stateroom aboard the Gulf States Limited, awoke on that momentous morn to a distinct apprehension that all was not as it should be with him. His mouth reminded him vaguely of a bird-and-animal store, and riot and insurrection had broken out in the geometric center of his internal economy.

Webster was sufficient of a jack-leg doctor to suspect he was developing a splendid little case of ptomaine poisoning. He decided to go into executive session with the sleeping-car conductor, who wired ahead for a doctor to meet the train at the next station. And when the sawbones came and pawed Jack Webster over, he gravely announced that if the patient had the slightest ambition to vote at the next presidential election, he should leave the train at St. Louis and enter a hospital forthwith. To this heart-breaking program Webster entered not the slightest objection, for when a man is seriously ill, he is in much the same position as a politician—to-wit: He is in the hands of his friends.

However, life had the habit of going hard with Webster so frequently that fortunately he was trained to the minute, and after three days of heroic battling the doctor awarded Jack the decision. Thereafter they kept him in the hospital ten days longer, "feeding him up" as the patient expressed it—at the end of which period Webster, some fifteen pounds lighter and not quite so fast on his feet as formerly, resumed his journey toward New Orleans.

In the meantime, however, several things had happened. To begin, Dolores Ruey spent two days wondering what had become of her quondam knight of the whiskers—at the end of which period she arrived in New Orleans with the conviction strong upon her that while her hero might be as courageous as a wounded lion when dealing with men, he was the possessor, when dealing with women, of about two per cent less courage than a cottontail rabbit. Being a very human young lady, however, she could not help wondering what had become of the ubiquitous Mr. Webster, although the fact that he had mysteriously disappeared from the train en route to New Orleans did not perturb her one-half so much as it had the disappearee. She had this advantage over that unfortunate man. Whereas he did not know she was bound for Buenaventura, she knew he was; hence, upon arrival in New Orleans she dismissed him from her thoughts, serene in abiding faith that sooner or later her knight would appear, like little Bo-Peep's lost sheep, dragging his tail behind him, so to speak.

Dolores spent a week in New Orleans renewing schoolgirl friendships from her convent days in the quaint old town. This stop-over, together with the one in Denver, not having been taken into consideration by Mr. William Geary when he and Mother Jenks commenced to speculate upon the approximate date of her arrival in Buenaventura, resulted in the premature flight of Mother Jenks to San Manuel de Padua, a fruitless visit on the part of Billy aboard the Cacique of the United Fruit company's line, followed by a hurry call to Mother Jenks to return to Buenaventura until the arrival of the next steamer.

This time Billy's calculations proved correct, for Dolores did arrive on that steamer. The port doctor came aboard partook of his customary [illegible] with the captain, received a [illegible] of the latest American newspapers and magazines, nosed around, asked a few perfunctory questions, and gave the vessel pratique.

Dolores observed a gasoline launch [illegible] up to the landing at the foot of the companion-ladder and discharge a well-dressed, youthful white man. As he came up the companion, the purser [illegible] him.

"Howdy, Bill," he called.

"Hello, yourself," Mr. William Geary replied, and Dolores knew him for an American. "Do you happen to have as a passenger this trip a large, interesting person, by name John Stuart Webster?" added Billy Geary.

"I don't know, Billy. I'll look over the passenger list," and together they moved off toward his office. Dolores followed, drawn by the mention of that magic name Webster, and paused in front of the purser's office to lean over the rail, ostensibly to watch the cargadores in their lighters clustering around the great ship, but in reality to learn more of the mysterious Webster.

"Blast the luck," Billy Geary growled, "the old sinner isn't here. By the way, do you happen to have a Miss Dolores Ruey aboard?"

Dolores pricked up her little ears. What possible interest could this stranger have in her goings or comings?

"You picked a winner this time, Bill," she heard the purser say. "Stateroom sixteen, boat-deck, starboard side. You'll probably find her there, packing to go ashore."

"Thanks," Billy replied and stepped out of the purser's office. Dolores turned and faced him.

"I am Miss Ruey," she announced. "I heard you asking for me." Her eyes carried the query she had not put into words: "Who are you, and what do you want?" Billy saw and understood, and on the instant a wave of desolation surged over him.

So this was the vision he had volunteered to meet aboard La Estrellita, and by specious lie and hypocritic mien, turn her back from the portals of Buenaventura to that dear old United States, which, Billy suddenly recalled with poignant pain, is a sizable country in which a young lady may very readily be lost forever. With the quick eye of youth, he noted that Dolores was perfectly wonderful in a white flannel skirt and jacket, white buck boots, white panama hat with a gorgeous puggaree, a mannish little linen collar, and a red four-in-hand tie. From under that white hat peeped a profusion of crinkly brown hair with a slightly reddish tinge to it; her eyes were big and brown and wide apart, with golden flecks in them; their glance met Billy's hungry gaze simply, directly, and with a curiosity there was no attempt to hide. Her nose was patrician; her beautiful short upper lip revealed the tips of two perfect, milk-white front teeth; she was, Billy Geary told himself, a goddess before whom all low, worthless, ornery fellows like himself should grovel and die happy, if perchance she might be so minded as to walk on their faces! He was aroused from his critical inventory when the houri spoke again:

"You haven't answered my question, sir!"

"No," said Billy, "I didn't. Stupid of me, too. However, come to think of it, you didn't ask me any question. You looked it. My name is Geary—William H. Geary, by profession a mining engineer and by nature an ignoramus, and I have called to deliver some disappointing news regarding Henrietta Wilkins."

"Is she—"

"She is. Very much alive and in excellent health—or rather was, the last time it was my pleasure and privilege to call on the dear lady. But she isn't in Buenaventura now." Mentally Billy asked God to forgive him his black-hearted treachery to this winsome girl. He loathed the task he had planned and foisted upon himself, and nothing but the memory of Mother Jenks' manifold kindnesses to him in a day, thanks to Jack Webster, now happily behind him, could have induced him to go through to the finish.

"Why, where is she?" Dolores queried, and Billy could have wept at the fright in those lovely brown eyes.

He waved his hand airily. "Quien sabe?" he said. "She left three weeks ago for New Orleans to visit you. I dare say you passed each other on the road—here, here, Miss Ruey, don't cry."

He took a recess of three minutes, while Dolores dabbed her eyes and went through sundry other motions of being brave. Then he proceeded with his nefarious recital.

"When your cablegram arrived, Miss Ruey, naturally Mrs. Wilkins was not here to receive it, and as I was the only person who had her address, the cable agent referred it to me. Under the circumstances, not knowing where I could reach you with a cable informing you that Mrs. Wilkins was headed for California to see you, I had no other alternative but to let matters take their course. I decided you might arrive on La Estrellita, so I called to welcome you to our thriving little city, and, as a friend of about two minutes' standing, to warn you away from it."

Billy's mien, as he voiced this warning, was so singularly mysterious that Dolores' curiosity was aroused instantly and rose superior to her grief. "Why, what's the matter?" she demanded.

Billy looked around as if fearful of being overheard. He lowered his voice. "We're going to have one grand little first-class revolution," he replied. "It's due to bust almost any night now, and when it does, the streets of San Buenaventura will run red with blood."

Dolores blanched. "Oh, dearie me," she quavered. "Do they still have revolutions here? You know, Mr. Geary, my poor father was killed in one."

"Yes, and the same old political gang that shot him is still on deck," Billy warned her. "It would be highly dangerous for a Ruey, man or woman, to show his or her nose around Buenaventura about now. Besides, Miss Ruey, that isn't the worst," he continued, for a whole-hearted lad was Billy, who never did anything by halves. "The city is reeking with cholera," he declared.

"Cholera!" Dolores' big brown eyes grew bigger with wonder and concern. "How strange the port authorities didn't warn us at New Orleans!"

"Tish! Tush! Fiddlesticks and then some. The fruit company censors everything, Miss Ruey, and the news doesn't get out."

"But the port doctor just said the passengers could go ashore."

"What's a human life to a doctor? Besides, he's on the slush-fund pay roll and does whatever the higherups tell him. You be guided by what I tell you, Miss Ruey, and do not set foot on Sobrantean soil. If you stay aboard La Estrellita, you'll have your nice clean stateroom, your well-cooked meals, your bath, and the attentions of the stewardess. The steamer will be loaded in two days; then you go back to New Orleans, and by the time you arrive there I'll have been in communication by cable with Mother Jenks—I mean—"

"Mother who?" Dolores demanded.

"A mere slip of the tongue, Miss Ruey. I was thinking of my landlady. I meant Mrs. Wilkins—"

"I'm so awfully obliged to you, Mr. Geary. You're so kind. I'm sure I'd be a most ungrateful girl not to be guided by you accordingly. You wouldn't risk any friend of yours in this terrible place, would you, Mr. Geary?"

"Indeed, I would not. By permitting anybody I thought anything of to come to this city, I should feel guilty of murder."

"I'm sure you would, Mr. Geary. Nevertheless, there is one point that is not quite clear in my mind, and I wish you'd explain—"

"Command me, Miss Ruey."

"If this is such a frightful place, why are you so anxious, if I may employ such language, to hornswoggle your dearest friend, Mr. John S. Webster, into coming down here? Do you want to kill him and get his money—or what?"

Billy's face flamed at thought of the embarrassing trap his glib tongue had led him into. He cursed himself for a star-spangled jackass, and while he was engaged in this interesting pastime Dolores spoke again.

"And by the way, which is it? Miss Wilkins or Mrs.? You've called her both, and when I reminded you she was a Miss, you agreed with me, whereas she is nothing of the sort. She's a Mrs. Then you blurted out something about a Mother Jenks, and finally, Mr. Geary, it occurs to me that for a complete stranger you are unduly interested in my welfare. I'm not such a goose as to assimilate your weird tales of death from disease. It occurs to me that if your friend John S. Webster can risk Buenaventura, I can also."

"You—you know that old tarantula?" Billy gasped. "Why—I—I came out to warn him off the grass, too."

Dolores walked a step closer to Billy and eyed him disapprovingly. "I'm so sorry I can't believe that statement," she replied. "It happens that I was standing by the companion-ladder when you came aboard and spoke to the purser; when you asked him if Mr. Webster was aboard, your face was alight with eagerness and anticipation, but when you had reason to believe he was not aboard, you looked so terribly disappointed I felt sorry for you.

"I'm going ashore, if it's the last act of my life, and when I get there I'm going to interview the cable agent; then I'm going to call at the steamship office and scan the passenger list of the last three north-bound steamers, and if I do not find Henrietta Wilkins' name on one of those passenger lists I'm going up to Calle de Concordia No. 19—"

"I surrender unconditionally," groaned Billy. "I'm a liar from beginning to end. I overlooked my hand. I beg of you to believe me, however, when I tell you that I only told you those whoppers because I was in honor bound to tell them. Personally, I don't want you to go away—at least, not until I'm ready to go away, too! Miss Ruey, my nose is in the dust. There is a fever in my brain and a misery in my heart—"

"And contrition in your face," she interrupted him laughingly. "You're forgiven, Mr. Geary—on one condition."

"Name it," he answered.

"Tell me everything from beginning to end."

So Billy told her. "I would much rather have been visited with a plague of boils, like our old friend, the late Job, than have to tell you this, Miss Ruey," he concluded his recital. "Man proposes, but God disposes, and you're here and bound to learn the truth sooner or later. Mother isn't a lady and she knows it, but take it from me, Miss Ruey, she's a grand old piece of work. She's a scout—a ring-tailed sport—a regular individual and same as a gander."

"And I mustn't call at El Buen Amigo, Mr. Geary?"

"Perish the thought! Mother must call on you. El Buen Amigo is what you might term a hotel for tropical tramps of the masculine sex. Nearly all of Mother's guests have a past, you know. They're the submerged white tenth of Sobrante."

"Then my benefactor must call to see me here?" Billy nodded. "When will you bring her here?"

Billy reflected that Mother Jenks had been up rather late the night before and that trade in the cantina of El Buen Amigo had been unusually brisk; so since he desired to exhibit the old lady at her best, he concluded it might be well to span for wind.

"Tomorrow at 10," he declared. Dolores inclined her head. Something told her she had better leave all future details to the amiable William.

"I remember you inquired for your friend, Mr. Webster, when you came aboard the steamer."

"I remember it, too," Billy countered ruefully. "I can't imagine what's become of him. Miss Ruey, did you ever go to meet the only human being in the world and discover that for some mysterious reason he had failed to keep the appointment? Miss Ruey, you'll have to meet old John Stuart the minute he lights in Buenaventura. He's some boy."

"Old John Stuart?" she queried. "How old?"

"Oh, thirty-nine or forty on actual count, but one of the kind that will live to be a thousand and then have to be killed with an axe. He's coming to Sobrante to help me put over a mining deal."

"How interesting, Mr. Geary! No wonder you were disappointed."

The last sentence was a shaft deliberately launched; to Dolores' delight it made a keyhole in Billy Geary's heart.

"Don't get me wrong, Miss Ruey," he hastened to assure her. "I have a good mine, but I'd trade it for a handshake from Jack! The good Lord only published one edition of Jack, and limited the edition to one volume; then the plates were melted for the junk we call the human race. Two weeks ago, when I was sick and penniless and despairing, the possessor of a concession on a fortune, but without a centavo in my pockets to buy a banana, when I was a veritable beachcomber and existing on the charity of Mother Jenks, I managed finally to communicate with old Jack and told him where I was and what I had. There's his answer, Miss Ruey, and I'm not ashamed to say that when I got it I cried like a kid." And Billy handed her John Stuart Webster's remarkable cablegram, the receipt of which had, for Billy Geary, transformed night into day, purgatory into paradise. Dolores read it.

"No wonder you love him," she declared, and added artlessly: "His wife must simply adore him."

"He has no wife to bother his life, so he paddles his own canoe," Billy recited. "I don't believe the old sour dough has ever been in love with anything more charming than the goddess of fortune. He's woman-proof."

"About Mrs. Jenks," Dolores continued, abruptly changing the subject. "How nice to reflect that after she had trusted you and believed in you when you were penniless, you were enabled to justify her faith."

"You bet!" Billy declared. "I feel that I can never possibly hope to catch even with the old Samaritan, although I did try to show her how much I appreciated her."

"I dare say you went right out and bought her an impossible hat," Dolores challenged roguishly.

"No, I didn't, for a very sufficient reason. Down here the ladies do not wear hats. But I'll tell you what I did buy her, Miss Ruey—and oh, by George, I'm glad now I did it. She'll wear them tomorrow when I bring her to see you. I bought her a new black silk dress and an old-lace collar, and a gold breast pin and a tortoise shell hair comb—and hired an open carriage and took her for an evening ride on the Malecon to listen to the band concert."

"Did she like that?"

"She ate it up," Billy declared with conviction. "I think it was her first adventure in democracy."

Billy's pulse was still far from normal when he reached El Buen Amigo, for he was infused with a strange, new-found warmth that burned like malarial fever, but wasn't. He wasted no preliminaries on Mother Jenks, but bluntly acquainted her with the facts in the case.

Mother Jenks eyed him a moment wildly. "Gord's truth!" she gasped; she reached for her favorite elixir, but Billy got the bottle first.

"Nothing doing," he warned this strange publican. "Mother, you're funking it—and what would your sainted 'Enery say to that? Do you want that angel to kiss you and get a whiff of this brandy?"

Mother Jenks' eyes actually popped. "Gor', Willie," she gasped, "haven't 'Ii told ye she's a lydy! Me kiss the lamb! 'Ii trust, Mr. Geary, as 'ow I knows my place an' can keep it."

"Yes, I know," Billy soothed the frightened old woman, "but the trouble is Miss Dolores doesn't know hers—and something tells me if she does, she'll forget it. She'll take you in her arms and kiss you, sure as death and taxes."

And she did! "My lamb, my lamb," sobbed Mother Jenks the next morning, and rested her old cheek, with its rum-bespotten hue, close to the rose-tinted ivory cheek of her ward. "Me—wot I am—an' to think——"

"You're a sweet old dear," Dolores whispered, patting the gray head; "and I'm going to call you Mother."

"Mr. William H. Geary," the girl remarked that night, "I know now why your friend, Mr. Webster, sent that cablegram. I think you're a scout, too."

For reasons best known to himself Mr. Geary blushed furiously. "I—I'd better go and break the news to Mother," he suggested inanely. She held out her hand; and Billy, having been long enough in Sobrante to have acquired the habit, bent his malarial person over that hand and kissed it. As he went out it occurred to him that had the lobby of the Hotel Mateo been paved with eggs, he must have floated over them like a wraith, so light did he feel within.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY GOES FISHING.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS]

[Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

It was a very hot day in Woodland, where the animal boys and girls lived. Not even the Orange Ice Mountains seemed to cool the air, and Sammie Littletail, the squirrels; Johnny and Billy Bushytail, the rabbits, and Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the pussy cats—

Anyhow, it was so warm that the animal children were quite fretful, and they seemed a bit cross, too.

"I wish I had something to do!" sighed Sammie.

"So do I," barked Jackie. "There isn't any fun anywhere."

"I thought you said it would be fun not to have any school, so you could play all day long," spoke up Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, for the animal children were sitting on the stump of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"It was fun for a while," chattered Billie, the squirrel, looking up a tree to see if any nuts were yet ripe, but none were.

"But we want something to do!" said Susie.

"I should think you would like to stay still and keep cool," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was sewing up a hole in her apron.

"Oh, but we want something to do!" cried all the animal boys and girls, and Peetie the puppy added:

"It's a big bite!" he cried.

"It isn't any fun just sitting about and keeping cool!"

"Well then, play tag, go wading in the duck pond, make mud pies, play soldiers or something like that," suggested Nurse Jane.

"Oh, but we want something different!" whined Jackie. "We've done all those things!"

"Well, I'm afraid I cant help you then," Nurse Jane smiled. "You'll have to wait until school starts up next month."

"Oh, dear! School! I can't bear to think of it!" sighed Sammie.

Just then Uncle Wiggily came out on the porch with his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch over his shoulder. He didn't need to lean on it, as the hot day chased all the rheumatism away.

"I'm going fishing," said the bunny rabbit gentleman. "Who wants to come with me?"

"There!" cried Nurse Jane. "A fine chance for you children to do something besides fret!"

But the animal boys and girls just looked at Uncle Wiggily and one after the other said.

"Oh, it's hot to go fishing!"

"All right! Stay here on the perch then!" said the jolly rabbit good natured like. "But if I catch any ice cream cones, or lollypops or bottles of sarsaparilla, root beer or cider-ale on my fishing hook, I suppose you won't want any?"

"Pooh! You won't catch any of those things!" said Jackie.

"I don't know! You never can tell what I catch when I go fishing!" laughed the bunny rabbit, and off he hopped to the duck pond.

Sammie and Susie, Johnnie and Billie and Jackie and Peetie sat on the porch looking at each other for some time. At last Jackie said:

"I wonder if Uncle Wiggily will catch anything like an ice cream cone? If he did it would taste fine on a hot day like this!"

No one else said anything for a while until, after a bit, Johnnie the squirrel chattered:

"If he caught a cool bottle of root beer I wouldn't mind drinking some!"

"Me, either," added Sammie. And then Jackie wagged his tail and said:

"Well, I'm going to watch Uncle Wiggily fish," and off the porch he trotted. Soon his brother followed and then, one after another, all the animal children who had been fretting and fussing went along.

"I hope Wiggy doesn't disappoint them," murmured Nurse Jane.

The animal boys and girls found the bunny rabbit sitting on a shady green bank, at the edge of the duck pond. He used his red, white and blue crutch for a pole, a piece of Nurse Jane's clothes line for a string and he had a hammock hook on the end of it.

"Did you catch anything yet, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Jackie.

"No, but I think I have a bite," answered the bunny, gently lifting his pole. "Yes, it's a big bite!" he cried. "Look out, everybody!"

With that he pulled up his crutch and there, dangling on the hammock hook were seven bottles—bottles of cool root beer, lemon soda, sarsaparilla and ginger ale.

"O, what a funny catch!" cried the animal children, as the bunny opened the bottles, stuck hollow reeds in them for straws, and passed them to his little friends. "How did you catch these instead of a fish, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Susie.

"Oh, that's tellings!" answered the bunny with a twinkle of his pink nose. But though Mr. Longears kept it a secret, I'll tell you. He just fastened those bottles to the hammock hook, lowered them into the pond and then pretended to be fishing until the animal boys and girls came along, as he knew they would. And then he just pulled up the cool drinks.

Wasn't that nice? I think so, anyhow.

I do not like tomatoes or carrots, but we got some turnips out of a man's lot on the way back from the pasture, and they tasted pretty good. I bet if a fella would run away from home in the summer time and drive his cow away with him he could live on the milk and almost nothing. We was talking about it when we had ate the turnips and then I said that if we could train the cow so we could ride her it would be a whole lot easier. We could get up and milk her for breakfast, and then ride her till noon and milk her for dinner, and trade off some milk at a farm house for a loaf of bread, and then we could ride her till supper time and then do it again, and she could eat all night while we was asleep so as to make milk for the next day.

So then we turned around and went back to the pasture to see if we could get the cows to let us ride them, and we tried it on the cow's dotter and that was where we made our mistake because she is younger and skittisher than the old cows. She wouldn't do it. I have got a lump on the back of my head so big that I have to wear my hat over my eyes. If a cow had any sense she would like to run away with a fella. She could see all the countries in the world and climb all of the mountains and everything.

When we had tried the cows and it wouldn't work, I told the bunch I was going home, and they thought it was because I got bumped. They do not know yet how tuff I am. I went around past Younisses house, and Younisses mother was setting out on the front porch fanning herself, and she hollered at me when I was going past and told me Younisa was making candy in the kitchen and to go on in. When I was going through the door she hollered at me again, and then she come over and felt of the bump on my head and asted me if I was getting a wet and I said I did not think so, and she said she bet I was and I would have to go to the doctor and have it cut off. She said I had better keep my eye on it. I guess she thinks I can look half way around my head. She is not so very brite. Younisa was just pouring the candy on a plate to cool. And now I have got a lump on the back of my head and a blister on my tongue.

Younisa asted me to go out with her to look for some wild strawberries and I said there ain't any. She said she knowed it but we could go and look. I asted her what was the use of looking if there ain't any. She said that all the use some boys has got a head is to wear their hat on it. She must think I am a nut to go looking for what I know there ain't. We et the candy and then her mother let her go home with me to supper.

When we got there she wanted to play school and give me a lot of problems to do. I wonder what she thinks I am. I said: "If you could give me a kiss a minute, and I caught you in the dark for three and a half minutes, how many kisses would I get?" She said, "You would get a slap in the mouth." Huh!

SUPER-PEACE CONFERENCE

To Insure Future Tranquility of World Favored.

GREAT BRITAIN IS GREATLY INTERESTED

In Agreement by England, America and Japan.

World Peace-Compelling Pact Is Sought—British Press Says Little Regarding Coming Meeting in Washington.

London, Aug. 19—The suggestion that the Far East and disarmament conference in Washington be transformed into a super peace conference to insure the future tranquility of the world, is finding favor in Great Britain. Following Premier Lloyd George's declaration in behalf of a tri-parte agreement among Great Britain, America and Japan, Premier Massey, of New Zealand, spoke in favor of such a world-peace-compelling pact, today.

"A tri-parte agreement among Great Britain, America and Japan would be the best arrangement possible," Premier Massey was quoted as saying in an interview with the Evening News. "If this could be attained at the Washington conference, the Pacific problem would be solved. Australia and New Zealand are more interested in the Pacific than any other nations."

The British press continues slow, however, in revealing its opinion towards the Washington conference. Only the Daily Chronicle, Times, Daily Mail and Manchester Guardian have commented, the three last named papers referring incidentally to the forthcoming disarmament conference in connection with their comment upon the British imperial conference.

The Times said it did not see how the disarmament conference could be successful without an understanding regarding the Pacific.

The Daily Chronicle, which generally reflects the views of the cabinet, regretted that the American government had overruled the proposal of a preliminary conference.

AMERICAN PEOPLE MOVE CAUTIOUSLY

Refuse To Mix in Matters Likely To Bring War.

Stockholm, Aug. 19—"There is little hope that the United States will join the league of nations, but the United States is peacefully inclined," said United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, in addressing the conference of the interparliamentary union here today. He continued:

"The American people are strongly convinced of the necessity of not doing anything which would result in their getting mixed up in any European dispute which might involve them in war."

Dr. Tanaka, of the Japanese diet, declared that Japan is ardently in favor of disarmament. "I hope," declared the Japanese legislator, "that the Washington conference will be a complete success."

Dr. Tanaka is a member of a Japanese parliamentary delegation that recently toured the United States.

There are two American delegates here, Senator Walsh and Senator McKinley, of Illinois.

LIFE OF PRISONER IS IN THE BALANCE

Man May Go to Death Chair Before Appeal Is Heard.

Akron, Aug. 19.—Unless Governor Davis appoints the judges to the circuit court of appeals created by the general assembly for Summit county, Jos Mack convicted of murdering his mother, will go to the electric chair without his case being heard by the court of appeals.

Attorneys for Mack filed notice of an appeal as soon as Mack was sentenced, but since then, owing to the division of the court of appeals entitled to hear the case there has been no hearing of Mack's claim.

Summit county people are in the dark as to the real motive for holding up the appointments since a sufficient number of candidates have been offered to fill the appeals bench, according to requirements of the law.

Mack is now in the penitentiary at Columbus awaiting action by the governor in selecting the court.

Motorcycle Meet

Columbus, Aug. 19—State championship motorcycle races scheduled originally for a week ago last Sunday, will be staged on the mile track at the Driving park here next Sunday unless the weatherman who was on bad behavior a fortnight ago again opens up the clouds and floods the track. Practically the same riders who were scheduled to race here two weeks ago will be seen in Sunday's events.

BULGARIAN WOMAN LECTURING HERE

Professor Irene V. Shishmanof, one of the most prominent leaders of Bulgaria and editor of a women's newspaper, she has arrived in New York for a lecture tour of the United States. She is the wife of Stephen Stephanoff, the famous composer, of the Balkans. Professor Shishmanof wears her marriage ring, and is proud of it, but at the same time carries out the emancipated woman's privilege of using her maiden name when she wishes.

INSPECTORS APPOINTED

Eleven Named for Duty as Oil Inspectors.

INCREASED STAFF FOUND NECESSARY

Millions of Barrels of Oil Escape Inspection and State Loses Big Sum.

Columbus, Aug. 19.—Announcement of the appointment of eleven additional state oil inspectors was made, today, by State Director of Commerce Phipps.

Simultaneously, it was stated that evidence in the hands of Governor Davis and Director Phipps that a maximum of 2,000,000 barrels of oil annually has escaped required state inspection and that this resulted in a net loss to the state of about $300,000, during the last five years, has led to the adoption of a new policy designed to obtain for the state this additional revenue.

The new inspectors include J. C. Hudson, Cleveland, John Towaley, Cincinnati; Frank Rose, Warren, and Ed Harvey, East Palestine.

It was stated that Governor Davis authorized the appointment of the new inspectors so as to permit a more intensive inspection of oils. The oil inspection staff now consists of fifteen men. Early in his administration, the governor cut the number from forty-four to four.

Director Phipps has issued an order aimed to prevent delays in oil inspection which heretofore, it is claimed, caused much loss to refiners and distributors. According to Director Phipps increased revenues are certain to follow the change which will more than pay the entire expense of the state bureau of oil inspection.

Under the new law, petroleum products produced in Ohio will be inspected at the refinery, instead of at their destination, as heretofore. Those products produced outside Ohio must be inspected at their first Ohio destination, before being distributed.

CLAIM RAILROADS ARE BLOCKING WAY

Road-Building Material Men Would Cut Rates.

Columbus, Aug. 19—Railroads are accused by road building material men of blocking the way for price slashes by proposing only negligible reductions in freight rates.

The proposed or supposed 18 per cent slash in rates offered by the railroads, the material interests contended, was in reality only an average reduction of 9.32 per cent. A reduction like that, the material men declared, won't help them a bit. They insist they can not afford to cut their prices until freight rates are reduced in such a manner as to insure use of a greater volume of materials especially for long hauls.

Material men complained that pressure is being brought to bear on them to accept the proposal of the railroads, pressure by folks who think the carriers offered a 25 per cent reduction. They say the roads offered to cut present rates about 6½ per cent, which would place them back to where they were before the last 40 per cent increase was put on by the interstate commerce commission, and then add 18 per cent to the new base. That would put about 18 per cent below present Ohio rates.

The hearing before the utilities commission was largely concerning railroad costs, revenues, deficits and profits.

RUM RUNNERS GET HARD BLOW

Ontario Attorney General Takes a Hand.

WILL SEIZE LIQUOR IN ILLEGAL TRANSIT

Patrols on Both Sides of Detroit River Are Put to Better Advantage in Fight.

Windsor, Ontario, Aug. 19—Organized rum running between Ontario and Detroit received a knock-out blow, Thursday night, when the Ontario attorney general's department ordered seizure of all liquors aboard vessels on the Detroit river, where the shipowner can not satisfy Canadian authorities the shipments have legal destinations. The order materially strengthened the "fighting front" of patrols from both sides of the river, who are attempting to curtail the flow of booze from Canada into the United States. This and a test case on here today to determine the validity of a shipment of 500 cases of beer from Ontario to the Unite States, were the day's outstanding features of the rum smuggling war.

In the test case, the Walkerville Brewing company is asked to show why the beer seized by provincial license inspectors should not be confiscated.

Ontario Attorney General Rainey was quoted in despatches from Toronto as saying that the federal charter granted the Essex Export company will not guarantee it or other exporting firms against seizure of shipments of liquor which are not made in regular carriers, despite the fact that the Essex charter states it can be its own carrier, carrier, custom-house agent and forwarder.

An Appeal Made.

Cleveland, Aug. 19—An appeal that a fast revenue cutter be stationed at Cleveland to watch the harbor for vessels carrying contraband booze, was made today to J. E. Russell, of Sidney, newly-chosen state prohibition agent, by George C. Southwell, president of the Dry Maintenance league.

Admissions by rum runners that at least four cargoes of the forbidden joy-inducer has reached the city in the last year, was given as the basis of the request.

Meanwhile, federal prohibition agents, aided by United States secret service officers and Cleveland police, were busy endeavoring to link up persons high in the social and political life of Cleveland with the rum-running plot which was frustrated by the seizure of the yacht, Venice, together with her captain and crew yesterday.

Captain William Curry admits that there were a number of Clevelanders involved in the plot, but has thus far refused to divulge their names. Officials however, in their investigation, are aided by a list found in the cabin of the captured yacht.

The contraband liquors, all of which are costly and some almost priceless, are being watched with the greatest care by a squad of city police to prevent their falling into unauthorized hands and eventually finding their way down thirsty throats.

A SHEPHERD DOG GOES TO THE RESCUE

Saves Cattle Trapped in Burning Barn at Wooster.

Wooster, Aug. 19—Bounce, shepherd dog belonging to Walter Johnson, saved six head of cattle from burning to death in a fire which destroyed a barn on a farm near here last night.

Men fighting the fire were unable to bring the cattle from the burning barn.

"Bring 'em out, Bounce," the dog was commanded.

He brought out six of eight head of cattle, while the barn was a seething furnace, one at a time. Two were left when the dog was called from his task on account of the danger.

The barn and its valuable contents were entirely destroyed.

Measure of Defense.

Washington, Aug. 19—As a measure of defense for the national capital, the district of Washington has been created independent of other army corps areas the war department announced this afternoon. The new district will include the District of Columbia, Fort Myer, Virginia; Fort Hart, Virginia and Fort Washington, Maryland. Brigadier General Harry Bandholtz will command the new district.

To Open Cigar Store.

Budapest, Aug. 19—The Hungarian government today granted a permit to Field Marshal Von Koevess, former commander-in-chief of the Austro-Hungarian armies in the World war, to open a cigar store in this city. The field marshal's vast estates were seized by the Roumanian government leaving him penniless.

GROCER RUNS CASH CUSTOMER DOWN

Effort To Be Polite Leads to a Bad Accident.

Hammond, Indiana, Aug. 19—N. Feinburg, a grocer, bought a new auto yesterday and while driving the car for the first time met Mrs. T. F. Edmonston, one of his best customers. To be polite he essayed to bow and tip his hat. The act was too much. He bowed, tipped his hat, stepped on the gas, opened the clutch and turned the wheel simultaneously.

The car went over the curb threw Mrs. Edmonston on her head, crossed a lawn, and was wrecked on a front porch. The cash customer was badly hurt but will recover. Feinburg is convinced that Adios and politeness should be strangers.

To Participate.

Washington, Aug. 19—American participation in the international exposition at Rio de Janiero, in 1922 was authorized by the senate for elgn-relations committee today. Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, the committee chairman, was empowered to report a bill providing for such participation in accordance with a request of President Harding and authorizing an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the purpose.

Gets Ten Years.

Whitesburg, Kentucky, Aug. 19.—Deliberating all night, the jury in the case of the commonwealth against Jonathan Frazier, Smoot Creek, returned a verdict giving him ten years in the penitentiary. Frazier shot and killed his brother, Henry Frazier, over a year ago, as he rode past his house. The murder followed an old grudge between the brothers.

A Hotel Project.

Atlantic City, Aug. 19—Formal incorporation of the Harding Hotel company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, chartered for the purpose of constructing a great hotel at Albany avenue, Chelsea, along the beach front was announced today, authorizing an immediate start on the structure which is to be named for President Harding.

Special Meeting.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19—Members of the shop crafts unions of the Pennsylvania railroad will hold a special meeting here, tonight, to discuss the issue of the railroad management in ignoring the recent labor board decision. N. P. Good, president of the union, will speak on the question at issue.

EUROPEAN CORN BORERS ARE FOUND

Columbus, Aug. 19—A few larvae of the European corn borer have been found by officials of the state agricultural department at Put-in-Bay and on Middlebass and Southbass islands, Lake Erie. No traces of the pest have been discovered on the mainland. Identification was made sure by entomologists of the agricultural department, the Wooster experiment station and the college of agriculture, Ohio State university. Officials of the federal government are cooperating with state officials in plans for stamping out the pest.

A VIGOROUS FIGHT IS BEING PLANNED

Tex Rickard Will Make a Battle in the Courts.

Chicago, Aug. 19—A vigorous fight on the constitutionality of the law prohibiting the transportation of motion-pictures of boxing matches from one state to another, is planned by Tex Rickard, according to announcement made by Rickard just before his departure from Chicago for New York. Rickard is under bond of $10,000 today, following his arrest for violation of the federal laws for bringing pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight into Illinois.

Colonel John V. Clinin, assistant United States district attorney, announced that the maximum penalty would be demanded for Rickard. This penalty is one year in prison, or $1,000 fine, or both. The offense is the same for which Rickard recently was fined $1,000 in New York.

TWO BROTHERS ARE HURT IN ACCIDENT

One Dies of Injuries in Columbus This Morning.

Columbus, Aug. 19—In separate accidents, two brothers, Francis Rake, and Wilson Rake No. 663 east State street, Parkersburg, West Virginia, were hurt here last night. Francis died this morning. The young men, it is said, were beating their way to Cleveland in search of work when Francis fell under a Big Four freight train. His left arm and leg were cut off.

Wilson was with policemen in an automobile enroute to police headquarters to tell of his brother's misfortune, when an automobile, driven by A. G. Dixon hit the officer's car, throwing Wilson and the policemen into the street. Wilson was taken to Protestant hospital. He was severely bruised and was hurt internally, it is believed. Dixon was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

City Coal Yard.

Cleveland, Aug. 19—Coal for city consumption at cost is promised by Mayor William S. Fitzgerald, today. He stated that a municipal coal yard would be established within a few days and that the city would retail to householders without profit. But little coal is now in Cleveland yards and a recurrence of the coal famine of other years is feared.

Reds Put Down Uprising.

London, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Helsingfors tells of an uprising during which rebellious crowds forced an entrance into Minsk. The Bolsheivik troops expelled the invaders after two days of fighting. NO DEADLOCK WITH GERMANY

State Department Enters Vigorous Denial Today.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE PACT MOVING

Matter of Responsibility for War Is Never Mentioned to Germany, Senators Say.

Washington, Aug. 19—Vigorous denials of the reported deadlock in the German American peace negotiations because of Germany's refusal to concede herself responsible for the World war, were communicated by the state department today, to Republican members of the senate foreign-relations committee.

None of the senators in question would talk for publication, but privately they stated that they had received positive assurances from state department officials that the negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily toward a successful conclusion. One senator declared that he had been officially informed by the state department that the question of Germany's responsibility for the World war had not even been raised by the American government in its negotiations with the German government.

Rail Credit Bill.

Washington, Aug. 19—Passage of the administration's railroad credits bill before the proposed senate recess, was admitted to be "highly improbable" by Senator Townsend Republican, Michigan, acting chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, in reporting the measure to the senate today.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, served notice that he would oppose final consideration of the bill until after the recess.

An Appropriation.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The appropriation of $100,000,000 in the pending Townsend good-roads bill was cut to $75,000,000 and passed by the senate today. An amendment providing for the reduction, "as a measure of economy," was adopted by a vote of forty-eight to twenty-two.

Senator New, Republican, sponsored the amendment after a previous amendment which provided for a reduction of the appropriation to $50,000,000 was defeated.

Two Are Beaten Up.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—Two municipal councillors sustained bloody noses and others suffered bruises in a free-for-all fight, today, over the question of Russian and Upper-Silesian relief. After the Communist majority of the city council had voted 100,000 marks for the relief of the Russians, the nationalists proposed an equal sum for the relief of German residents of Upper Silesia. The Communists attempted to shout down the speaker and then the row started. The Upper-Silesian relief was not granted.

Greeks Advancing.

London, Aug. 19—Greek advance guards are only fifty miles from Angora, the Turkish nationalist capitol in Anatolia, said a Central News despatch from Athens today. MORRISON SAYS IT IS LOCKOUT

Unemployment Result of a Wide Move of Employers.

STRIKES ARE PROPER. BUT NOT LOCKOUTS

Locking Out of Workers Means National Wreck in Opinion of Federation Secretary.

Washington, Aug. 19— Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, today declared the nation-wide unemployment now prevailing is "the most gigantic and widespread lockout of wage earners in the history of the country."

"It's a lockout—you can't call it anything else," Morrison said. "It's a deliberate shutting-out of labor to starve it into submission, even if the country goes to ruin.

"If congress wants to know why 6,000,000 workers are out of employment as the secretary of labor estimates, let it investigate the gigantic conspiracy to crush organized labor by financial interests with an iron-and-blood policy that would do credit to the kaiser and his crew. Rule or ruin is the slogan of these interests. They are cold-bloodedly starving women and children and they intend to keep business depression until they have workers submitting to lower wages and working standards.

Immediate action by the administration to relieve the unemployment condition will be demanded by the executive council of the Federation of Labor when it meets in Atlantic City, August 22, for a two-weeks session, it was learned.

"Secretary of Labor Davis in his report to Congress, dealt only with the numer of unemployed," says Morrison. "He did not estimate the millions more who are employed only partial time, earning just enough to keep body and soul together.

"It is time for the public to wake up before it is too late. That is labor's warning. The failure of a large element to awaken to the grim situation that confronts the country is in striking contrast to their attitude whenever a group of wage-earners voluntarily suspend work to enforce better living conditions. It is all right for big business to lock out the workers, but it is all wrong when the workers exercise their right to strike to elevate their living standard.

"It is astounding that congress should think anything as important right now as legislation to provide jobs for the millions of jobless anxious to labor. It's idle to talk about business revival while nearly 6,000,000 men and women are out of employment and millions more are making starvation wages. With the purchasing power of these millions either cut off entirely or reduced to a minimum, there can be no return to normalcy.

"An after effect of the war is the control of credit by private financiers. The American Federation of Labor has declared that credit is inherently social and it should be a government function operated for the benefit of the people. As now administered, it permits financial agencies to levy a toll upon the people as high as the traffic will bear."

The bonds of the city would be more popular if they paid cash dividends.

ERIE MASTER MECHANIC NOW IS GEORGE T. DEPUE

He's Transferred to This City from Galion.

SUCCEEDS BLOCKER, NOW WITH RAILWAY SERVICE

B. of R. T. Auxiliary Is Planning for Picnic at Garfield Park August 31.

H. W. Sasser has again assumed his former position of superintendent of the Erie shops of this city, succeeding George T. Depue, appointed master mechanic of the Kent division.

After having held the position of shop superintendent here successfully for several years Mr. Sasser was succeeded by Mr. Depue, former superintendent, some months ago when the Erie inaugurated its retrenchment policy by abolishing some positions and necessarily making changes all around. Mr. Sasser was appointed general locomotive inspector, with headquarters at Youngstown. He has maintained his residence in Galion, however, and yesterday again assumed his former position at the big shops.

Mr. Depue's appointment as master mechanic of the Kent division fixes his headquarters at Marion. He succeeds Raymond V. Blocker, who is the shop manager of the Erie shops at Marion just taken over by the Railway Service company. For the time being Mr. Depue will continue his residence in Galion.

Te appointments of Depue and Sasser is announced in a bulletin issued by W. A. Baldwin, general manager of the Ohio region of the Erie.—Galion Enquire.

W. E. HAAS FUNERAL HELD AT CALEDONIA

News from Caledonia and That Vicinity.

Caledonia, O., Aug. 19.—[Special.] A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pace.

The funeral of W. E. Haas was held Wednesday afternoon. Rev. John Green held short services in the home after which services in the Nevada cemetery were conducted by Rev. Mr. Green, assisted by Rev. Mr. Fischer, of the M. E. church in Nevada. Miss Jessie Mae Green, of Cadiz; Rev. John Green, L. E. Gayman and Mrs. C. G. Underwood sang. Several hundred friends of the family were present at the cemetery.

A musical program will be given Sunday evening, in Memorial M. E. church, by Miss Mildred Baker formerly of this place and a graduate of Ohio Northern university. She will be assisted by Miss Jessie Mae Green, of Cadiz, and Mrs. Richard Kolberg, of Cleveland. Mrs. Kolberg was formerly soloist at Miles Park M. E. church in Cleveland.

At a meeting of the board of education held Monday evening, the following drivers for school wagon routes were hired: Charles Key, Lee Mitchell, Walter Lyon and Benjamin Cluff. Thomas Hill and D. A. Hurr will drive the auto trucks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nesbitt and children, Elizabeth and James, and their guests, Mrs. C. C. Coulter and daughter, Esther Irene, of LaRue, motored to Plain City Saturday, where they attended a family reunion.

AN AMERICAN TALKS OF RUSS

prisals for an attempt to assassinate Nicolai Lenine. I soon found out that the reports of 'Red' terrorism were not exaggerated.

"I returned to Moscow to see what was happening and was caught in a Bolshevik police trap. I was arrested outside of the American consulate, just as I was about to enter.

"It was the custom for the police to place a guard in a man's room after he had been arrested, to arrest everyone who attempted to enter. The guards acted without discrimination, arresting all persons whether friends or bill collectors. Often such prisoners were jailed longer than the original captive. The police did not explain this policy, but they evidently acted in the hope the longer they waited the better their chance to secure evidence for definite charges.

"The police were continually preparing ambuscades. I knew one man in the same prison with me who had fallen into such an ambuscade. He was arrested and held nine months, although there were no charges against him and he was never put on trial. Finally, in desperation, he accepted a charge of thievery, which had been standing against another prisoner of the same name, in order to get a definite sentence he could work out and thus secure his liberty.

"I spent eight days in the Techeka prison with nightly interrogations. All that time I was practically without food. Then came a big trial, with the newspapers filled with details.

Under Charges.

"I was accused of organizing an allied intelligence service in Russia and also of being connected with the so-called Lockhart plot against the soviet government.

"They condemned me to death and I was sentenced to be executed in twenty-four hours.

"During the week I was in Tscheka, as I said, I was nearly without food and my strength and resistance became very low. Every night I was taken before the examiners who bombarded me with questions.

"The British diplomatic agent, Lockhart and a French general were tried in absentium with me and I was told that they were condemned to death by the proletariat of their own countries.

"A Russian colonel and myself were condemned together and were sent to the death chamber in the gloomy Kremlin prison. Two weeks elapsed before the Russian officer was taken out and shot and in the meantime I lingered in jail expecting every day to face a firing squad.

"For a year and a half I awaited execution and then was told that my sentence had been commuted to twenty years. You can imagine that, after continuously awaiting death for eighteen months, one becomes hardened—shock proof—calloused as to his own fate. Still later on I was told that my sentence had been cut down from twenty years to five.

"As I look back, some of it seems unreal and some of it very real, indeed. The worst time was in the evenings. Then it was that they took out the condemned prisoners and shot them. In my prison the executions usually took place in the cellars. And the cellars of Tcheka were great, gloomy, mouldy rooms furnishing a fitting setting for such sanguinary deeds. I never found out why they did not shoot me.

"The prisons were crowded and it was necessary to put more than one prisoner in the death cells at different times. I remember one night when eleven men were taken out in a batch for execution.

Die Like Men.

"I am glad to say that they died like men. There was no pulling back, no screams, no sobs. No one broke down.

"After eight months in the Kremlin prison, the British negotiated the exchange of the British prisoners in Russia for Commander Raskol Nikoff, a Bolshevik leader who was a prisoner in the hands of the British.

"Colonel Van Der Sprey, of the British flying corps on the Archangel front—fighting was in progress around Archangel at that time—was brought into Kremlin prison a month before the exchange. He had been compelled to make a forced landing behind the Red lines and was captured. The Bolsheviks put him in solitary confinement; keeping him secret so that he would not have to be given up with the group of British prisoners that were being exchanged for the commissar.

"Through the stupidity of the guards, I met the British colonel in the Russian baths in Kremlin prison. Do not get the idea we had such comforts regularly. Let me say, by way of parenthesis, that I had three baths in the eight months I was in Kremlin.

"After the exchange of British prisoners, I was transferred to Butyrki prison. Conditions were a little better there. I had been getting a quarter of a pound of bread daily in the Kremlin. In the new prison, my rations were increased to one pound of bread a day.

"I preferred the jails to the concentration camps. I had served ten terms in concentration camps and the food was abominable—much worse than in the jails.

"In December, 1920, one week before the decree abolishing capital punishment in Russia except for certain crimes like espionage, more prisoners were hastily taken out and shot than in the weeks previously. One Russian who had been tried at the same time as myself and sentenced to five years, was shot to death."

Kalamatiano requested that no comment upon the political situation be attributed to him. His explanation was: "There are too many factors entering into the situation for any one—even a person who really knows the inside of the situation—to prophesy what is likely to happen."

Richwood Chautauqua Next Year.

From the opening concert by the American Troubadours Saturday afternoon clear through succeeding programs this year's Redpath Chautauqua has proven the advance promises that the course would be the best yet offered Richwood Chautauqua patrons. From a rather discouraging outlook, at first, local guarantors have seen gate receipts rise to a point, which insures a nearly even break financially. All this has so encouraged the local association that a contract has been made which insures a Redpath Chautauqua for Richwood in 1922.—Richwood Gazette.

NEW CHAUTAUQUA BOARD IS ELECTED LAST NIGHT

Four Women Are Among Fifteen Members Chosen.

SENTIMENT IS FOR ASSEMBLY IN 1922

New Board Will Meet for Organization Next Monday Evening.

A new board of fifteen directors was elected at the annual meeting of the Marion County Chautauqua association Thursday evening in the offices of the chamber of commerce. Plans for the coming year were discussed and the sentiment of the members is that a Chautauqua should be held next year. There also was some discussion as to the price of season tickets and some expressed the opinion that the price should be less than two dollars a ticket in order to reach a larger number of people.

Members of the new board are S. E. Barlow, W. T. Jones, John H. Clark, Homer R. Waddell, Mrs. John H. Guthery, J. Wilbur Jacoby, F. C. Hughs, J. E. Phillips, Dr. H. K. Mouser, Mrs. F. M. Knapp, G. W. Jakeway, Mrs. Louis Uhl, George Whysall, Mrs. W. H. Holverstott and Ray R. King.

The board will elect officers at a meeting in the offices of the chamber of commerce Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

CHURCH SOCIETY

Park Street Quarterly Conference.

The quarterly conference of the Park Street A. M. E. church, will be held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Communion service will be held at the church Sunday morning.

Mrs. Charles King was hostess to the members of the True Friendship club, Thursday afternoon, at her home on Woodrow avenue. Sweet peas and dahlias were used to decorate the rooms. In a contest the first award was given to Mrs. Earl Ash and second to Mrs. Charles Narrance.

No Services Sunday Afternoon.

There will be no services Sunday afternoon at the Seventh-Day Adventist church. Services will be held Sunday afternoon, August 28.

Dr. Maud L. Bull, of south State street, is in attendance at the Seventh Day Adventist conference in session at Mt. Vernon.

Evangelistic Meetings.

Beginning Sunday evening and continuing for two weeks evangelistic meetings will be held at the Claridon M. E. church. A song service will be held each evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock. A number of able speakers have been engaged for the services the first week and Rev. Mrs. J. O. Duncan, of Cincinnati, will conduct the meetings the second week. There will be no Saturday evening services.

Loyal Daughters.

A meeting of the Loyal Daughters, of the Reformed church, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. F. B. Nixen, of Nunin court. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. William Morgenthaler. A business meeting and social hour were enjoyed and Miss Minnie Gorenflo was contest winner.

Marion Chapter.

The meeting of the Marion chapter, of the Westminister Guild, to have been held yesterday was postponed until next Thursday because of the inability of several members of the organization to attend.

Presbyterian Aid Society.

An all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, was held in the church parlors yesterday, the ladies taking up the entire day with sewing and the making of surgical dressings.

Loyal Women's Class.

Mrs. Ollie Schneider and Mrs. Claude Geissler were hostesses to the members of the Loyal Women's class, of the Central Christian church, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Schneider, of Forest street. It was decided to hold a bazaar and bake sale soon and Mrs. A. D. Pickering, Mrs. Ollie Schneider, Mrs. Claude Geissler and Mrs. Paul Rubins were appointed a committee to purchase material for the bazaar.

Sunday-School Picnic.

The members of the Wesley M. E. Sunday-school will hold a picnic Saturday afternoon at Garfield park. The members will meet at the church at 1:30 o'clock to go to the park. A feature of the afternoon's entertainment will be a ball game. Other games and contests have been arranged also. A picnic supper will be held in the evening.

Into Full Membership.

Five scholars, who have been studying the church catechism and prepared for membership will be taken into full membership of the Prospect street M. E. church Sunday morning August 21. They are Dale Hecker, Esther Reisinger, Alice Schott, Ruth Schott and Anna Endt.

HOWISON FAMILY IN FIFTH ANNUAL REUNION

It Is Held at Fairground at Richwood.

The fifth annual reunion of the Howison family was held Thursday at the Richwood fairground. Covers were laid for 150 at the picnic dinner served at noon, after which a program was enjoyed. An original poem was given by Mrs. B. P. Retterer after which Harvey Howison, of Warrensburg gave a talk. Mary Eleanor Griffith, of Richwood and Edwin Howison, Jr., of Columbus gave recitations after which Rev. C. B. Phillips of Plymouth gave a talk. The closing address was given by Rev. M. S. McKenny, of Warrensburg.

The following officers were re-elected: Jesse L. Howison, Delaware, president; Lee Howison, Marion, secretary; John H. Howison, Richwood, treasurer. E. L. Rowlands, Mrs. Eliza Davids, of Warrensburg, and Mrs. B. P. Retterer, of Marion were appointed on the entertainment committee; Lee Colvin, Lou Howison and Paul Rowlands, of Warrensburg, were appointed to arrange for the next reunion which will be held the third Thursday in August at Greenwood Lake, Delaware. Two marriages, two deaths and two births were reported during the year.

Bullet Enters House.

Some time between midnight and 1 o'clock Friday night a shot fired from across the street entered the residence of V. F. Collier on west Ottawa street. The bullet, a thirty-two calibre, went through the outer wall and flattened itself against a chimney on the other side of the room. The lead was found on the floor. Mr. Collier, who is one of Richwood's most venerable, and most respected citizens, was rather perturbed at first over what he thought was an attempt to do him an injury, but conversation with a neighbor disclosed the fact that the neighbor had fired at a dog which he said had disturbed his sleep.—Richwood Gazette.

EDGAR THOMAS WINS NET FINALS FROM BOB WHITE

Rangy Player Wins Three in Four-Set Match.

AFTER WHITE GARNERS FIRST SET IN PLAY

Thomas Will Meet City Champion, Howard R. Stoll, Next Sunday Afternoon.

Edgar Thomas, member of the freshmen tennis squad at Ohio State university and a well-known player, locally, won in the finals in the Clark cup singles tournament, yesterday afternoon by defeating Robert White, other final contestant, in a four-set match with scores of 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. Thomas, by coming through victorious in this match has gained the right to play Howard R. Stoll, champion of the club, in the challenge match of the tournament a three-out-of-five sette, which will be staged next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In the first set of yesterday's match Thomas was not near up to form and seemed to have a certain amount of difficulty in getting started.

Apparently a Characteristic.

This is apparently one of the characteristics of the winner, as he lost his first set in the match with John H. Hane without the taking of a game. White, who was playing a good game and was effectively using a lob shot managed to keep Thomas away from the net and took the first set 6-4. With the beginning of the second set Thomas tightened up and began immediately to pick up on his game. In this set Thomas came up to the net like a shot and got in some effective work.

Instead of placing the ball as is usually his custom, Thomas played the ball direct at White and seemed to be trying to let White beat himself by driving the ball out. He seemed to be a bit afraid to take any long chances and did not play his usual spectacular game at the net.

Off Color, Too.

That Thomas was off form is verified by the fact that during the match he drove forty balls into the net as compared with White's thirty-nine. However Thomas' service was working nicely and during the match he drove eighteen service aces into his opponent's court.

The perfection of his serve aided Thomas greatly in the winning of the match and, although White played a good game and fought an extremely good fight, his rangy opponent produced a classier game of tennis and won three straight sets. In comparing the game of the two opponents, the following statistics will be of interest:

Services aces, Thomas 18, White, 4; placements, Thomas 42, White, 30; double faults, Thomas 5, White 5; nets, Thomas 40, White 39; outs, Thomas 33, White 43.

In the doubles tournament L. Allen and G. Allen defaulted to Tennis and Smith, and the latter team defeated Scott and Dreher, yesterday with set scores of 4-6, 6-8, 6-2. The doubles tournament is well on its way and the championship will probably be decided by the end of the week.

For Coming Bout.

New York, Aug. 19.—Bryan Downey will train for his coming bout with Johnny Wilson at the Freddie Welsh health farm, Summit, New Jersey, it became known today. Downey will arrive here the first of the week, according to Tex Rickard, who today received his certified check of $1,000 for weight and appearance. Johnny Buff and Indian Russell, of Harrisburg, will fight on the same card for the American flyweight title. If Russell wins, he will capture Buff's diamond belt emblematic of the title.

Wins Battle.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—Hans Breitensträter, heavyweight boxing champion of Germany today knocked out Harold Rolph, heavyweight champion of the Canadian army, in the tenth round.

After Champion.

New York, Aug. 19.—Abe Attell, who lose the world's featherweight championship to Johnny Kilbane in 1912, hopes to be instrumental in dethroning the champion. Tom McGinty, who is promoting the title bout between Kilbane and Danny Frush, the Baltimore battler, announced today that Attel is going to help train Frush for the battle. Attell will leave for Cleveland in a day or two. The Frush-Kilbane bout, a twelve-round battle to a decision, will be staged in Cleveland, September 17.

TENNIS CLASSIC IS SCHEDULED TOMORROW

American Legion and Marion Tennis Club Teams.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, a team representing McGinnis Post, No. 162, American Legion, will compete with a team from the Marion Tennis club in a tournament of four singles matches and two doubles tilts, the contests to be staged on the Marion Tennis club courts. The team representing the legion is composed of six players of no mean ability. "Bud" Hane, former Michigan state doubles champion, and former title holder of the Cleveland district in this state, Edgar Thomas, challenger in the Clark cup singles tournament and member of Ohio state university tennis squad, and Elsow King and Walter Hane, two other well known netters, will defend the legion in the singles, while Hane and Thomas and Robert White and King will play in the doubles for the war veterans. The team which will defend the local tennis club in the day's tournament has not as yet been definitely picked, but the players will be chosen from the following list of players:

T. R. Allen, J. J. Hane, Dale Miller, Robert Von Kaenal, Richard Scott, A. R. Tennis and Ovid Bain.

The meet promises to be one of interest and is being looked forward to by local fans, because it is the first match of its kind ever staged on the local courts and the fact that the city's best netters will participate also adds to the interest.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Tagging the Bases.

Freddie Bratchi batted for Red Faber in a pinch in the eighth and batted in two runs that enabled Chicago to trim the Yanks.

Babe Ruth smacked out his forty-sixth homer of the season. He is now three weeks ahead of his 1920 schedule.

Clarence Mitchell and Leon Cadore handed the Cardinals a pair of lickings in Brooklyn.

The Pirates increased their lead by taking two games from the Phillies with Hamilton and Glazner pitching.

John McGraw's team bowed to Luque of the Cincinnati Reds.

Alan Sothoron thought an express train hit him in the first three innings at Cleveland, but it was only the Athletics on a rampage.

Detroit lost both ends of a twin bill to Boston.

Four hits was the sum total of St. Louis' efforts against Walter Johnson.

The Senators won Donnie Bush in the draw after Detroit asked waivers on the veteran s The Yanks had a claim in too.

WEEDS, NOT WIDOW'S, BUT G. D. COPELAND'S

Case Is Argued Before Judge Charles F. Close.

WHO RESERVES HIS DECISION IN MATTER

Five Decrees of Divorce Are Handed Down by Judge Close This Morning.

Argument in the case of George D. Copeland, plaintiff-in-error, against the city of Marion defendant-in-error, was heard this morning in the common pleas court by Judge C F Close, of Upper Sandusky. At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Close announced that he would withhold his decision until a later date

In Mayor T E Andrews' court July 29, 1921 the plaintiff-in-error was convicted and fined $25 for permitting noxious weeds to grow on premises owned by him in the southwest part of Marion

In presenting arguments in behalf of the plaintiff-in-error, Attorney E B Durfee contended the judgment of the lower court was in violation of the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States, the ordinance of 1787 governing the territory northwest of the Ohio river and the constitution of the state of Ohio He claimed enforcement of the ordinance under which the case was prosecuted would draft the plaintiff-in-error into a particular service without compensation which would be a violation of the constitution. He also stated that the ordinance was passed June 27, after the weeds were already there, and presented the contention that the ordinance could not be made retroactive.

City Solicitor George T Geran, for the defendant-in-error, presented arguments to refute the contention of the plaintiff in error and in answer to the contention of the plaintiff-in-error that the ordinance was not retroactive, stated that the weeds continued to grow even after the passage of the ordinance and after the arrest of the plaintiff in-error July 18.

Five Divorce Decrees.

Five decrees of divorce were granted this morning in the common pleas court by Judge Charles F Close, of Upper Sandusky.

Nora Irvine was granted a divorce from Ross Irvine on the grounds of extreme cruelty, gross neglect and immorality. Custody of the minor child was awarded to the mother and the defendant ordered to pay $25 a month for its maintenance The decree was ordered withheld for one year

Samuel R Beatty was granted a divorce from Georgia M Beatty on the ground of gross neglect Costs were assessed against the plaintiff and the decree was ordered withheld for ninety days.

Amanda Mumford was awarded a divorce from Charles L Mumford on the ground of gross neglect. The costs were charged against the plaintiff and the decree withheld for ninety days

Daisy E. Fairchild was granted a divorce from Fred W Fairchild on the ground of gross neglect The defendant's cross-petition was withdrawn and the case heard on the petition The costs were charged against the plaintiff and the decree withheld for ninety days.

Catherine M Clifton was granted a divorce from David R Clifton on the ground of gross neglect and extreme cruelty Agreement between the parties as to property rights was approved and made a part of the record The decree was ordered withheld for ninety days.

Divorce Case Dismissed.

The divorce suit of May B Brown against Charles N. Brown was dismissed at the plaintiff's cost without record in the common pleas court this morning.

Decree of Foreclosure.

Decree of foreclosure and order of sale were entered in the common pleas court this morning in the foreclosure suit of the Fahey Banking company against B C Wurtzbaugh and others.

Amended Petition.

An amended petition asking for the appointment of a receiver of the property in question was filed in the common pleas court today in the suit of the Commercial Credit company against Ray Ruffner and the Columbus Armleder Sales company The amended petition was filed through Watson, Stouffer, Davis & Gearheart, of Columbus, and Attorney C. C Fisher.

The Commercial Credit company is suing for $1,010 alleged due as the balance on a note for $2,420 given by Ray Ruffner to the plaintiff. The note is secured by a chattel mortgage on an automobile truck

MISS SARAH E. IMBODY WEDS RALPH W. MILLER

Ceremony Is Performed in Columbus This Week.

Word was received here today announcing the marriage of Miss Sarah E Imbody, daughter of Mr William Imbody, of east Center street, who was united in marriage to Mr Ralph W Miller, of Springfield, at Columbus Wednesday evening at 7 30 o'clock in the presence of relatives and a few friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev Mr Wagner, of the Presbyterian church.

The ring ceremony was solomnized at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs E Patterson, and was followed by a dinner

The marriage came as a surprise to many of the friends of the young people, as both are very well known in this city.

The bride, who is an accomplished young woman, wore a traveling suit of green duvetyne with accessories to match and a corsage of Ophelia roses showered with lilies-of-the-valley.

Mr. Miller is employed by the Commercial Steel Castings company and highly esteemed.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on an extended wedding trip to Springfield and other points and upon their return will reside with the bride's father, at No. 558 east Center street, for the present.

RAILWAY LABOR RULING AFFECTS ONLY RAILROADS

And Not Employes of Railway Service Company Here,

ACCORDING TO OFFICER OF LOCAL SERVICE COMPANY

Federal Board Holds Railway Employes Entitled to Time and Half for Overtime.

Employes of the Railway Service company, lessors of the Erie roundhouse and shops are not affected by the ruling of the railway labor board announced in Chicago today that railroad employes are entitled to time and one-half for overtime, an officer of the company today stated in response to an inquiry

Today's ruling of the labor board is to the effect that railroad employes working more than eight hours or on Sundays and holidays are entitled to pay for time and one-half The officer of the Railway Service company stated this does not affect employes of the service company for the reason that they are not railroad employes

Wall as Protection.

It also was explained by this officer of the service company that the construction of the six-foot board fence around the plant is for the protection of workmen of the service company

The company, he explained, is privately owned, incorporated under the laws of Ohio and insures its employes under the workmen's compensation act. The wall was built, he said, to separate the plant from the railroad yards and thus protect the workmen in the plant

MISS BROWNE WINS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Defeats Mrs. C. V. Hitchens, of Mexico City.

Forest Hills Long Island Aug 19.—Miss Mary K Browne of Santa Monica California won her way into the final round of the women's national tennis tournament here this afternoon, by defeating Mrs C V Hitchins, of Mexico City 6-3, 6-0

Miss Browne's playing was a bit erratic today, but she had no trouble disposing of her opponent though Mrs Hitchins fought gamely

By winning, today, Miss Browne earned the right to meet the winner of the Mallory-Bundy match, scheduled later in the afternoon

May Head New Polish Government

It is reported that conservatives in the Polish Parliament are making arrangements for a coup d'etat in the opposition of convening a rump parliament in Posen, Poland, and the establishment of a government led by Roman Dmowski, formerly president of the Polish National Committee. It is rumored that certain of the Posen regiments, comprising 40,000 men, are in sympathy with M. Dmowski.

MAY ENDOW GREEN CAMP CEMETERY LOTS

Trustees Are Now Taking Up the Proposition.

During the summer of 1921 the township trustees of Green Camp township authorized a bond issue of $4,000 for the purchase of additional land for cemetery purposes This land has been purchased just north of the present cemetery in Green Camp township It is the intention of the township trustees to endow this land so that the cemetery lots will be permanently kept up by the income from the sale of lots in this new cemetery addition The privately-owned cemetery is not endowed. It is the desire of the trustees and the people who own lots in that cemetery addition to have these privately-owned lots also endowed so that they may be kept permanently in condition.

At a meeting of the township trustees it was suggested that each lot owner pay the sum of $25 as an endowment fund for the upkeep of the lots There are about eighty-seven lot owners in the cemetery Another meeting of the lot owners will be held to decide the matter.

HERE'S A BOY THAT'S GOING TO MAKE GOOD

Harold Dutt, Now a Soldier, Calls at Dentention Home.

Harold Dutt, of Hagerstown, Maryland, a member of the detachment of soldiers of the Second and Third infantry regiments of the United States army, which passed through the city Wednesday, visited Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs Addison Bain, of the Bain Detention home

The young man remembered Mrs Bain as an old acquaintance, having passed five weeks in the strong ward of the home in 1919 when he was held a ward of the court, being accused of the theft of $10 worth of coupons from the John D Owens store at Owens The boy, who was then fifteen years old was acquitted and returned to his home at Hagerstown He afterwards enlisted in the army At the time of his detention at the home the boy was unable to read or write He told Mrs Bain or his visit Tuesday that he was learning reading, writing and arithmetic along with his army training

BASEBALL

Lorain Here Sunday.

The Lorain baseball team, which is to meet the Marion Daily Stars at Lincoln park, Sunday afternoon, is coming loaded with a view to getting even for the defeat suffered earlier in the season The Lorain team lost a hard game to Marion early in the season by a score of six to five, batting Jackman from the mound in the fourth inning According to word from Lorain, they have strengthened the team quite a little and have been winning all of their games

The local team will have practically the same line up it has had in the past, the experiments to strengthen the team in various departments being without success Owing to the disposition of a small number of fans to kill amateur sports in Marion the local season will probably be cut short and the team of locals will likely spend next season on the road, but the players expect to give their best efforts for the benefit of the real fans and supporters until the finish.

Q.—In the Harold Lloyd picture, "Now or Never," how was the scene made where Lloyd was shown running at neck break speed on the roof of a train?

A.—Harold really did not endanger his life by running along on top of a train at a Man-O-War speed. He did actually run over the roofs of the cars, but a safe pace. The illusion of tremendous speed was created by turning the crank of the camera much slower than the ordinary rate of sixteen pictures a second. When the film was shown at the standard rate of speed the action of course was greatly speeded up which made Lloyd appear to run at an almost impossible clip. This is one of the commonest tricks of the trade.

Q.—Who are Theodosia Goodman and Mrs. Charles J. Brabin?

A.—They are both Theda Bara. Theodosia Goodman was her real name before she had her name legally changed by the courts to Theda Bara. At the time she had her name changed her mother, father and sister also legally adopted the name of Bara. Theda in private life is Mrs. Brabin, she having just recently been married. Theda was born in Cincinnati thirty-one years ago and began her screen career as the vampire in the Fox film "A Fool There Was."

Q.—What well-known movie actress was born on the same day of the month as her mother?

A.—Lila Lee was a birthday present to her mother and the two recently had a joint birthday celebration in Hollywood on July 25.

Q.—Which of the following actresses are married? Thelma Percy, Bebe Daniels, Glayds Walton, Betty Blythe, Doris May, Corinne Griffith, Mabel Normand, Elaine Hammerstein, May Allison and Helen Darling?

A.—Here are the single ones: Thelma Percy, Bebe Daniels, Mabel Normand, Elaine Hammerstein, May Allison and Helen Darling. Of course all the others are married.

Q.—How old is Molly King and to whom is she married?

A.—Molly in private life is Mrs. Kenneth Alexander. She has a younger son, Kenneth, Jr. She was born in New York City in 1898

IRELAND WILL GET NO MORE

mon parliament into executive session at once.

The cabinet then would present its whole plans with reference to the Irish situation. But in the meantime, said the premier, the government would consider itself authorized to take any emergency measures that was necessary.

The premier said that he was giving his statement to the house of commons as an explanation of why parliament was being adjourned instead of prorogued as originally intended.

General Election.

A fight to bring about a general election with Ireland as the chief issue, was opened last night and continued in the final session of parliament today. Lieutenant Colonel Henry Page Croft demanded that the electorate be consulted before legislation was enacted to put into effect the terms of Lloyd George's peace offer to Ireland.

Austen Chamberlain, spokesman for the government, blocked an effort to debate the question. Mr. Chamberlain promised commons the fullest opportunity to discuss the question.

Sir John George Butcher charged that the cabinet had completely reversed its Irish policy, but Mr. Chamberlain denied this.

The opening gun of the parliamentary fight against Lloyd George's peace offer and in favor of a general election to test the strength of the Lloyd George cabinet, was fired late Thursday night, when nine members of the house of lords and eighteen members of commons sent a letter to the premier protesting against the terms he had offered to the Sinn Fein. They charged that the premier had exceeded the will of parliament. The communication said, in part:

"We dissent against the far-reaching offer as compromising and dangerous in its terms allowing the maintenance of a Sinn Fein army."

No Better Offer.

London, Aug 19.—"The British government has offered to Ireland all that it can give without compromising the safety of the realm, the sovereignty of the crown and the dignity of the empire," declared Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary, in moving adjournment in the house of lords, today.

This was considered a virtual reply of the English government to Eamonn de Valera. It was generally accepted as the viewpoint of the British government upon the Sinn Fein's rejection of the English peace offer.

"The British government," continued Marquis Curzon, "has gone to the extreme limit. It is a broad, liberal and notable concession for a proud country to make.

"It is inconceivable that Ireland would consent to a renewal of the quarrel."

The foreign secretary referred to the "unanimity of world praise" for the English peace offer.

"A separation of Ireland from the United Kingdom and the British empire would mean the political and economic ruin of Ireland," said the foreign secretary. "I decline to consider such a sinister development.

"If a challenge is given the British government will accept it and will not quail before the difficult task if the issue is put in the balance."

GUNMEN USED TO JUDGE CASES

street corner. The accuser asks the accused if the former's charges are true. Unless the accused can prove to the satisfaction of the gunman-judge and the accuser that the charges are without foundation, he will be shot or stabbed on the spot. An attempt to bring a bodyguard would be suicidal for an accused man. Many have been killed in Detroit through the code of the secret societies, whose judges are gunmen and whose pay is in proportion to the number of their executions."

RAILWAYS LOSE $376,000,000

Valley railroad; J. A. Wallace, Indianapolis, assistant auditor, Lake Erie and Western railroad; C. L. Peckham, Cleveland, assistant auditor, New York Central and St. Louis railroad and S. P. Wilson, Pittsburgh, chief clerk to the controller of the Panhandle and Cincinnati, Lebanon & Northern railroads.

On cross-examination a number of witnesses testified, due to wage reductions, lower prices for steel and coal, increased business, etc., it is expected that the earnings of the railroads will be greater during the last six months of this year. They said, however, they could not state whether the railroads will make any money this year.

The testimony of the railroads' witnesses tended to support the argument that the railroads are not in a position to make rates lower than those of the Ohio railroads jointly agreed to charge the balance of this year.

ALBERT A. KAUFMAN Presents

not guilty

A SIDNEY A. FRANKLIN PRODUCTION

A wonderful drama of the love of two brothers for one girl.

EXTRA!—Mack Sennett Comedy, "DON'T WEAKEN" Pathe Review and Weekly News.

Matinee 10c-20c Evening 15c-3[illegible]

MON. TUES. WED. MARION MON. TUES. WED.

REMEMBER——

—Marshall Neilan produced it.

—Amid the scenic grandeurs of Glacier Park

—And on the site of Custer's last stand

—Wherein it climaxes

—In a battle of thousands of Red Indians against a handful of gallant frontiersmen.

—Wesley Barry, James Kirkwood and Marjorie Daw head the cast.

—Portraying the screen's greatest drama of frontier days!

MARSHALL NEILAN

PRESENTS RANDALL PARRISH'S

"Bob Hampton Of Placer"

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

Other Marshall Neilan successes that have shown at the Marion: "Daddy Long Legs," "The River's End," "Go and Get It," "Don't Ever Marry" and "Dinty."

To the Citizens of the Community:

The Railway Service Company is offering at this time good positions in their organization to Marion men. We have the interests and the future development of this community at heart and what we are doing now will add value to every home in the city.

We are an Ohio corporation operating an Industrial plant and have no connection with the Railroad Labor Board or Interstate Commerce Commission.

It is necessary that the Erie Railroad Company operate on Sunday and we must do likewise and the SUNDAY and HOLIDAY DOLLAR IS NO LARGER than the week day dollar.

Men entering our employment at this time will be assured of steady work thoroughout the winter and full time.

Do not be mislead by misstatements or street corner orators who have nothing to offer you but free advice.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Edward F. Zebold, whose residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 4th day of June, 1921, William T. Jones, commenced an action against him in the court of common pleas of Marion county, Ohio, and by an attachment caused moneys belonging to said Zebold and now in the possession of Hon. L. S. McNeal, probate judge of Marion county, to be held by him as a garnishee.

The object of action and the prayer of the plaintiff's petition are that he may recover from the defendant the sum of twelve hundred dollars with interest at six per cent. from the 25th day of May, 1921, which sum plaintiff was compelled to pay and did pay as surety on the bond of said Edward F. Zebold, as administrator of the estate of Clara E. Zebold, deceased.

Defendant is required to appear and answer said petition on or before the 17th day of September, 1921, or judgment will be taken against him by default.

RICHWOOD COUNCIL TO GET A STATE HEARING

Light Case Is To Be Considered September 28.

Richwood's contest on the question of local rates for electricity has found its way to the state utilities commission. The Richwood Light, Heat & Power company has filed its schedule, providing for a rate of fifteen cents per kilowatt hour, with the commission. The village has filed its rate ordinance, seeking a reduction to twelve cents, with the same body.

Under terms of the company's schedule the fifteen-cent rate became effective August 1. The village ordinance became effective August 2. By this arrangement, until the rates are definitely settled upon the company will charge consumers fifteen cents, subject, however, to a refund, in case the commission reduces the fifteen-cent rate. To guarantee this refund, the commission has required of the light company a bond of $12,000.

At Monday night's meeting of the council, it was decided to employ some person thoroughly competent to make an appraisement of the property of the Richwood Light, Heat & Power company.

The utilities commission has set September 28 as the date for hearing the case.

Reunion of Lust Family Held at Bucyrus.

At a reunion of the Lust family held at Bucyrus yesterday, 350 members of the family were present and a fine picnic dinner was enjoyed. After dinner a program was given, it consisted mainly of recitations and songs. A splendid talk by Rev. Mr. Gratz, of Bucyrus, was also a feature of the affair. At the business meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: W. H. Lust, of Marion, president; Jacob Meiser, of Bucyrus, vice president; Harry Lust, of Marion, secretary; John Best, of Bucyrus, treasurer.

The next reunion of the family will be held sometime in August of next year at Garfield park.

Richwood Youths to Lancaster.

Three Richwood boys, each twelve years of age, were sentenced Saturday to the reform farm and were the same day taken to Lancaster. The hearing was held in the court of Probate Judge W. H. Husted. Two of the boys, Alvin White and William Chapman, were charged with breaking into the stable of M. H. Kelfroth and stealing a gold watch and chain. Ralph Bristley was charged with the theft of eight dollars from the clothing of Stanley Peet while the latter was swimming at the gravel pit.—Richwood Gazette.

Attend Two Reunions.

Mr. and Mrs. Elnora Smith and children and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Smith Wednesday attended the Mann reunion held at the fairground at Upper Sandusky, and Thursday attended the Ling reunion held at Carey. About seventy-eight attended the Mann reunion. The next reunion will be held at Forest. About sixty attended the Link reunion and the next one will be held at Findlay

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"As fast as laws are devised, their evasion is contrived"

About all the food left in Russia is food for thought.

There is this to be said about the present-day tendency of girls to "bob" their hair It's their hair.

Talking about optimism, what could surpass that of those who hope to survive bootleg whisky till the "real stuff comes back?"

Why couldn't those wooden ships be turned upside down and made a partial answer to the housing question?

The difference between bucking a gambling machine and buying a cantaloupe is that the average machine is fixed to let the player win every third time

Geraldine Farrar is said once to have written an article for publication detailing how to keep a husband She must have mislaid her scrapbook

Maybe Chairman White has simply taken over the job of acting as "relief" for Senator Harrison in his great act of "tilting" the windmills

It is called the "silent drama," but the people who take delight in reading the sub-titles refuse to let it pass as such.

Anyway, it's not fair to say the girls aren't wearing anything Some of them are wearing coats of tan

It seems absolutely impossible for Sarah Bernhardt to break herself from the habit of making farewell tours of the United States She proposes to come over next year, but doesn't state whether it's a single farewell or one of a series

If bootleg whisky and home brew are as bad as alleged, the human body is a much more marvelous thing than has been generally assumed.

"Sometimes it seems to me," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today, "that the world has gotten a long distance away from the philosophy that half a loaf is better than no bread at all."

If the world simply must feed Russia, let us hope that Bill Haywood will not be permitted to contract gout, or something like that

Great Britain plans to start four battleships next year and four the year following, each to cost $30,000,000. That job of old Atlas wasn't so much after all.

"Pursuing the subject a little further," remarks the Wilmington News-Journal, "we might say we have never seen the imprint of a church carpet on a girl's bare knees" Pshaw, that's nothing. We know a lot of people who haven't even seen a church carpet

Well, well, well! The weatherman and Luna actually showed teamwork last night in doing the square thing by the fair young maid in the front porch swing

The Louisville Courier-Journal commenting on the fact that a two-day-old baby was found in a rural free delivery mail box over in Pennsylvania, the other day, wanted to say that evidently Will Hays was succeeding in his determination to "humanize" the postoffice department, but another clever one went wrong for the compositor set it up "harmonize"

While the apple crop may not be up to standard, the pumpkin crop is said to be a bumper The lover of pie will recognize in this another manifestation of the eternal law of compensation

Then too, some legislature might gain everlasting fame by getting together and saying "Let's forget that there is such a thing as a second term, let's enact any needed legislation without fear or favor, turning our backs on the lobbyists and striving for the good of all and then proceed along that line It's just possible that, in that event, the second term proposition might take care of itself.

HE KNOWS HOW TO HANDLE THEM

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

Indications have not been wanting that the limitation of armaments conference, called by President Harding to meet in Washington in November, would be a diplomatic meeting of the very first importance, but later developments strengthen this prospect The decision of Premier Briand to attend as head of the French delegation illustrates the vast importance of the meeting in the view of the French government, and the text of the acceptance, transmitted by Ambassador Herrick, is further proof of the satisfaction with which France regards this great opportunity to discuss vital international affairs, so fraught with desirable consequences to the peoples of the world.

The French acceptance is no mere cold and formal promise to attend and take part in the discussion It is a warm and sympathetic message and while it naturally does not discuss the hopes and aims of the conference or attempt to prejudge its conclusions, it may fairly be construed as extremely favorable to the end sought by President Harding and the American government Ambassador Herrick's cable to Secretary Hughes reads,

"Premier Briand authorizes me to express through you to the president his appreciation of the invitation to the Washington conference on November 11 and to say to the president that he shall have great pleasure in attending the conference in person as head of the French delegation"

The example of France will doubtless be followed by other nations anxious to obtain as significant a representation as France. Lloyd George will probably be the head of the British commissioners In short, it looks as though the gathering of the powers at the American capital will be invested with extraordinary significance, and that its deliberations and conclusions will go down into history as one of the most notable conferences of the nations ever held since the dawn of the world

Sleeping and dining car employes are said to be complaining that tips are growing smaller. That's not so astonishing. After paying his railroad and Pullman fares and the taxes on each, to say nothing of a possible outlay for "excess baggage, it's a wonder the traveler has enough left for any kind of a tip.

A LESSON TO THE WORLD.

Reports from Reval tell of an increasing number of arrivals there of Russian-Americans who were deported from this country for their un-Americanism They are a disillusioned lot and their one ambition is to return to the land they disgraced—an ambition doomed to failure.

These deportees have had their eyes opened and their stomachs emptied in Russia. Communism in action is not communism in a pleasant parlor discussion followed by refreshments. The old idol grows tottery when viewed closely and the fallacy of Bolshevism is revealed in its hideous reality

The more the uprising in Russia is studied the more it gives the impression of being a matchless blessing for the remainder of the world The careless thinker in every land needed just some such demonstration to prove how wild his ideas of government were Years and years of scholarly combat, prison sentence after prison sentence might have left some of these folk still unconvinced that Bolshevism and some others of the isms were fraudulent and vain.

Apparently the enlightening process is much briefer for those who visited benighted Russia and not much longer for those who from afar are witnessing the demoralization and dire taking place in an unhappy land The experiment in fatuity has been an expensive one, but it probably will be a sound investment for the world for few there have the courage to stand up and demand a Russianized world

It's always difficult to assay good from the ruins of any war, much less the World war, but it is not impudent to suggest that a war which yielded a by product like the Russian revolution, proving as it does the follies of Bolshevism, has at least that thing to its credit The world might have spent generations trying to determine whether these forms of government was workable It has succeeded in all that time Explosions in a few short months of the recent past have shown it a dismal failure.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor]

FIRE.

What a faithful, hard-working servant fire is—when properly controlled and directed!

It cleanses and purifies

It warms, and gives protection and comfort

It softens metals and releases powers

It boils, it bakes, it fries, it vaporizes, it dries, it condenses and expands, it consumes and creates

Industrially, commercially, socially economically—we could not get along without fire

Civilization would cease to exist without fire, the globe would become depopulated without fire.

Yet what a destructive and merciless fiend fire is—when it escapes control and direction!

Nothing is sacred to it then

It consumes its own temples and altars, it destroys its own devotees.

Then it is respecter of no person—of no property.

However, fire seldom runs riot of its own volition, usually it escapes bounds through the carelessness of its masters or keepers

And then—what havoc it frequently works!

As shown by the report of the Ohio state fire marshal, for the month of July just past, thirty persons in all met death through fire or fire causes, in that short period.

Thirteen of these unfortunates were children and the causes of their deaths were as follows

Lightning, one; matches, four, electric wires, three, gunpowder, one, hot clinkers, one; bonfires, one, oil, probably murder victims, two

Fourth of July claimed two victims—a man and a child High-voltage wires and other electrical agencies took the lives of seven

The number of injuries from fire during July of this year is the largest ever recorded by the fire marshal's office, for any one month Thirty-three of these can and must, be attributed to the revival, in certain localities, of old-time celebration practices.

Among the odd causes of injury was a fire caused by a match head flying into a celluloid tray A woman was badly burned as a result

Sad to say, Ohio is averaging more than one death a day from fire causes; and nearly one-third of these victims are babies

It is calculated that gross carelessness is responsible for ninety-seven per cent of our conflagrations and deaths and injuries from fire—carlessness in one way or another, to great or small degree

What is true of Ohio, doubtless is true of every other state in the union.

Fire should be kept a meek and obedient servant: fire, in the main, can be kept a meek and obedient servant.

I'M CONCERNED.

I read in a daily paper, "The woman whose name has not been learned is in the hospital with bullet wounds in both limbs" I'm duly concerned Is the hospital wounded in the limbs, or is the woman? If the hospital—what the deuce are the limbs of a hospital? If the woman—what limbs: both arms, both legs right arm and right leg, left arm and left leg, right arm and left leg, or left arm and right leg? I do wish reporters would be more specific and exact!

NEW SIGNIFICANCE OF DANUBE RIVER NOW

Since the Completion of Its Internationalization.

FROM BLACK FOREST TO BLACK SEA IT FLOWS

And Who Has Not Heard of It Through That Old-Fashioned Waltz?

Washington, Aug 19.—The completion of the internationalization of the Danube by the recent formal action of the interested allied powers announced in Paris despatches is the occasion for the issuance from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society, of the following bulletin descriptive of the famous river.

"From the Black Forest to the Black sea, over a course 1,800 miles in length, the Danube has long been a chain upon which romance and history have vied with each other to hang interesting traditions and occurrences. Geography too has done its share, and although the Volga exceeds its rival in length, and although the Rhine in Thackeray and Hood has had better press agents, the Danube is large enough and beautiful enough to rank in interest with the great rivers of the world.

More Barrier Than Highway.

"There was a time when the Danube was symbolized by an old fashioned waltz. But since the World war began, nothing but a hesitation typifies the place the river was held in the economic life of the countries through which it runs. It has been less the highway and more the barrier than in pre-war days. Not yet does it serve to bind the various nations through which it passes into a friendly and cooperating group. It has been officially open to ships of all nations since the forming of the Danube commission in 1856 and the various states interested long cooperated to improve the navigation facilities, especially in the lower reaches of the river; but political conditions have done much to weaken the economic link which once bound Linz and Vienna to the great grain shipping center of Braila, to which ocean going vessels can steam, and to the Black sea ports themselves.

"Charming villages, beautiful meadows, picturesque hills crowned with ruined castles, princely palaces, ecclesiastical piles and two of the world's most fascinating capitals are strung along the lengthy and winding river. Thriving industries raise their smokestacks besides the stream whose legendary color is blue but whose true tint varies from a dirty green to a muddy yellow. More tragic than the encroachment of factory smoke has been in late years the sad sight of countless chimneys from which the life-breath of industry seemed to have expired forever.

Hohenzollern Castle on Banks.

"Near its source at Donaueschingen, the river passes between the castle which gave its name to the late ruling family in Germany and a war monument to the Hohenzollern men who fell in the Franco-Prussian war. Farther down it passes through the once-proud capital of Austria-Hungary, where the fine government buildings stand to the despairing inhabitants as a mocking reminder of better days, and beside the Prater, once a deer park and later a pleasure garden noted for its Viennese gaiety.

"Still farther along its course just after entering Czecho-Slovakia, at its junction with the March, there is a towering cliff spired with a monument erected to celebrate 1,000 years of Hungarian nationality. This is Czechoslovakian territory now, and there last summmer the Stars and Stripes were draped on the occasion of the visit of a large group of Czech-Americans to the newly freed land of their fathers.

"Bratislava, now Czechoslovakia's river port, was once the city in whose dignified cathedral the Hungarian kings were crowned. The boat station there reveals the changes which history has wrought. Over the center of the landing the present name is given, but to the left one can see most of the letters of the German name 'Pressburg' and to the right there is the Hungarian name 'Poszony.'

Budapest Not War-Torn.

"Vienna, brooding in its lovely parks, which lack the care that was once lavished on them, and contemplating with cynicism the motto 'Si Vis Pacem, Para Bellum,' whose golden letters decorate the walls of the Ministry of War, is a sad sight. But Budapest, still militant, still haughty in the consciousness of its beauty, seems to have been less troubled by the passage of war.

"Food is the main reason. Hungary, reduced as it is, still contains some of the best land in Europe. Vienna, its industry stopped can do little to earn the food it needs. During the summer of 1920 all traffic between the two capitals was stopped by mutual boycotts and although steamers plied the Danube from Linz to Budapest, no through passengers or freight were received.

"To the casual observer, Budapest is the same proud city.

"The fine parliament building and the imposing palace on the heights across the river, where Admiral Horthy now rules, seem as attractive as before the war. The upper river is still crowded with bathers and with canoes and rowboats in which charming women and stalwart men do their best to attain a spacious coat of tan. Along Franz Josef Quai, the promenade adds a lively touch of color to the drab scenes to which the beautiful blue Danube has become accustomed.

Celtic Fortress Still Stands.

"From Zemun, once the last Hungarian port on the Danube, a short trip between low banks brings one to Belgrade, the capital of the new Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, where the steamer rounds the base of the ancient fortress which dates back to the time of the Celts, the Romans and the Franks and comes to its dock a little way up the Save, where here enters the Danube from the south.

"About four hours sail below Belgrade the wide plains give way to hilly country where the Transylvanian Alps curve down toward the jumble of mountains which extends to Montenegro and Greece. It is in this region that the main obstructions of the river occur. But the most famous obstructions and the finest scenery come at the Kazan Dufil and the 'Iron Gates' where the river has collected a gruesome toll.

"At Rustchuk, the railway traveler from Rumania ferries across a broad and sluggish stream to continue his journey to Sofia and Constantinople; and here the banks of the Danube are lined with huge barges, many of which are still idle. Below Silistria, the river curves to the north and passes through Rumanian territory throughout the rest of its length. At Cerna Voda, it is crossed by one of the longest railway bridges in the world, the last of the many bridges which cross the stream, some of which are now destroyed as a result of the war and post-armistice fighting.

"Braila, 125 miles from the three main mouths of the Danube, is a port for the grain and produce of a rich agricultural region. In pre-war days its wharves teemed with life and its huge grain elevators bulged with the rich products of Wallachia and Dobrudja, which has seen great development since the Russians gave it to Rumania instead of the more valuable and fertile tracts of Bessarabia. From Galaz to the sea the Danube has already been under the control of an International Commission, whose duty has been to tame the river and the many nationalities to whom the river is highway or barrier according to the tides of human passion and national life."

GROOM EIGHTY-ONE AND BRIDE IS SIXTY-EIGHT

J. D. McKinnie and Mrs. Ella L. Gast, Prospect.

THEY ELUDE FRIENDS, GOING TO COLUMBUS

Groom Is Retired Farmer—Third Marriage for Each—Take Honeymoon Trip.

Prospect, O., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—John D. McKinnie and Mrs. Ella L. Gast, both of Prospect, were married Thursday, August 11 at 5 o'clock at the home of Stanley E. Borthwick, No. 135 east State street, Columbus. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. S. Bailey, pastor of the Therman Avenue M. E. church. Following the service a wedding dinner was served to a number of intimate friends of the couple.

Mr. McKinnie left Prospect Thursday morning, August 11, saying he was going to Delaware for a visit with friends. The bride also left Prospect Thursday morning saying she was going to Columbus for a visit. The groom is eighty-one years old and a retired farmer. The bride is sixty-eight. This is the third marriage for both.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinnie returned here Thursday evening after a visit in Columbus, Springfield and Dayton.

Retterer Family Reunion.

The reunion of the Retterer family was held Sunday at Garfield park with more than 200 in attendance. After a picnic dinner and a short program the following officers were elected: C. W. Retterer, president; [illegible] Retterer, vice president; Mrs. George Turner, recording secretary; Mrs. John Oborn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Milton Morral, treasurer. The next reunion will be held the third Sunday in August, 1922, at Garfield park.

The annual reunion of the Porter family will be held Sunday, August 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Porter, of Green Camp.

ATTORNEY VAN WINKLE DISBARRED FOR FRAUD

Disappears from Home at Richwood Last October.

HE EMBEZZLES MONEY BELONGING TO CLIENTS

Lawyer Is Permanently Disbarred in Ohio by Marysville Common Pleas Court.

After hearing the evidence in the common pleas court Thursday morning Judge Cameron disbarred S. W. VanWinkle permanently from practicing law in Ohio, for the following reasons:

For uttering and publishing of two checks of $75 each purporting to be signed by J. C. Davis and J. D. Coulter, these checks being drawn on the First National bank, of Bucyrus. The evidence of J. Fred Wood and L. J. McCoy, of Richwood, showed that there were no such men.

For uttering and publishing two checks, alleged to be given by B. C. Beem, of Richwood, on the First National bank, of Richwood. There is no such man as B. C. Beem in Richwood. The amounts of these checks were for $65 and $75 respectively.

For unprofessional conduct in the suit of Oliver P. Cowgill, of Claiborne township versus Mary C. Lee, in which the evidence showed that Van Winkle had collected the costs, but had failed to pay it to the clerk of the common pleas court.

For unprofessional conduct in the matter of the guardianship of Henry Cochran, of Richwood, the evidence showing that Van Winkle sold real estate for his ward for $600 and never accounted for it.

For failing to turn over to a Columbus firm the sum of $200, which he collected from Edward A. Schambs, a prominent business man of Richwood.

Mr. Van Winkle suddenly disappeared from his home in Richwood about October 20, 1920, and his whereabouts are unknown to the officials of Union county. Van Winkle had been practicing law for several years. There were six witnesses who testified in the case.—Marysville Tribune.

Has Ten Year Old Hen.

Having survived considerably beyond the time allotted to the makers of the country's billion dollar industry, a white Leghorn hen owned by Dr. J. P. Brooks, is still producing eggs at a more profitable rate than many of her younger sisters of the poultry yard. This hen is at least ten years old. She was hatched in 1910 or 1911, on the farm of Dr. Brooks' father, ex-county treasurer H. J. Brooks. She is still an apparently young hen, active and healthy. We have not heard of an older hen than this, have you?—Richwood Gazette.

WILL NOT INCREASE TAX RATE MUCH OVER $22.84

That's the Conviction of County Auditor B. C. Decker.

AFTER ANNOUNCING DEBT FIGURES FOR THE COUNTY

Increased Debt Is $456,890.93. County Owes Close to Two Million, Exclusive of City.

Marion county's debt at the close of the year ended July 1, 1921, shows an increase of $456,890.93 over the balance outstanding July 1 1920 notwithstanding the fact that $219,443.50 of the old debt was redeemed during the year, according to the county auditor's abstract of debt for the year forwarded to the state auditor Friday. These figures include the county, villages, townships and schools, but are exclusive of the city of Marion.

Debt outstanding July 1, 1920, amounted to $1,762,550.92. With amount redeemed during the year the balance of the old debt July 1, 1921 totaled $1,642,567.42. During the year new issues amounted to $676,324.47, making the total debt outstanding July 1, 1921 $2,319,241.85.

What of Tax Rate?

Just what effect this increased indebtedness will have on the tax rate can not it is announced be accurately forecast for the reason that all reports on valuation have not been received. Public utility valuations have been delayed.

County Auditor B. C. Decker says that he does not expect the indebtedness to make very much of an increase in the tax rate for the reason that assessments for a large portion of it have already been included in the levy, although the amounts were voted too late to be shown on last year's indebtedness report. Last year's rate was $22.84 a thousand valuation and Mr. Decker said he does not expect this to be increased any appreciable figure.

Old Debt in 1920.

July 1 1920 the total outstanding county debt amounted to $675,300 the amount redeemed during the year $98,530 leaving the balance of the old debt outstanding July 1, 1921, $554,770. Issues during the year amounted to $267,034.43, making the total outstanding county debt July 1 1921 $821,804.43.

County issues during the year include $199,584.43, consisting of $158,584.43 for state aid roads and $41,000 for bridges and culverts. This amount for state aid roads represents one half of the figure for that work the other fifty per cent being furnished by the state. Of this $158,584.43 one-half will be paid by the county thirty per cent by the townships in which the work was done and twenty per cent by the abutting property. New issues for the county during the year also include $67,450 for roads, which is assessed against the property.

Village Debt.

Village debt outstanding July 1, 1920, amounted to $103,820.92 the amount redeemed $26,143.50 leaving $77,677.02 the balance of the old debt outstanding July 1 1921. New issues during the year amounted to $13,000, making the total village debt outstanding July 1, 1921, $90,677.42.

There was no outstanding debt for the townships July 1 1920 but $8,100 was issued during the year including $1,700 for roads, $4,000 for cemeteries and $2,400 for road machinery.

School debt outstanding July 1 1920, amounted to $1,105,230. The amount redeemed during the year was $94,770, making the balance of the old debt outstanding July 1, 1921 $1,010,460. Issues during the year amounted to $388,200, making the total school debt outstanding July 1 1921, $1,398,660.

July 1, 1921, the balance in the sinking fund amounted to $9,139.01, [illegible] $2,000, $1,621.59.
